A. K. HAWKES CO. KOOKE

Have you ever read the story of Grandma's Attic Treasures !

The old furniture of grandmother's girlhood stood long years in disuse, covered with dust and cobwebs.

Buyers of antiques drove through the country and heard of the old homestead. They visited grandmother and asked to see the furniture stored in the garret. Grandmother said the pieces were of no value. But they looked over the lot and paid grandmother enough to lift the mortgage from the old home and give her and grandfather peace and quiet the remainder of their lives.

You may not have priceless antiques in your attic; but probably you have some extra pieces of furniture that are useless to They may be sturdy and of a style suitable to the needs of some other family.

The only trouble is to find the family that peeds them and that trouble disappears with the use of a Constitution Want Ad.

Constitution Want Ads. sold at a fair price, will dispose of your old furniture for you. Telephone Main 5000 today. Ask for a Want Ad Taker, tell what you have for sale and an expert will write your ad.

Program for Final Exhibit of Fashion Show at Allen's

The crowds of appreciative women who have filled this store for two days express the wishes of the women, and tell of the work of Fashion Advancement influenced by this house.

Today the program continues and takes up the further showing of Street Dresses, Suits, Motor Coats and Afternoon Wear.

Corset Demonstrations Wednesday Afternoon

We have changed our program somewhat, believing that the women of fashion value above many things the use of a fine Corset-the proper corset for every figure.

Aside from the perfect models who will wear the Corsets for demonstration, we will have for you a professional corset lecturer, who will tell many things you'll be glad to know and value to remember.

This demonstration will takeplace on second floor

Every handsome article of dress exhibited by these beautiful manikins belongs to the house of J.P. Allen & Co. and is for sale.

There will be no evening performance
